

The Ten Thousand Things: A story of the lived experience of the I Ching
ISBN 9 780980 40453 1

Sustenance
ISBN 978 1 257 05890 7

Adventures in Manifesting: Health and Happiness
Ålska Publishing, 2011
ISBN 978 0 987 16291 5

Human Values and Ethics in the Workplace
ISBN 9 780980 40450 0

The Little Book of Ethics: A human values approach
ISBN 978 0 9804045 4 8

To the Bush and Back to Business
ISBN 978 0 9804045 5 5

Glenn can talk to your group or organisation, speak at your seminar or conference, or run workshops on ethics and leadership. He can also talk with your group about writing, or the role of stories in our learning.

Contacts for Glenn

Tel: 02 9945 3345

Fax: 02 9945 0524

Mob: 0421 440 557

info@glenmartin.com.au

Websites:

www.glenmartin.com.au

www.ethicsandvalues.com.au

www.writerinaction.blogspot.com

Book purchases

For book purchases, see

www.glenmartin.com.au

or contact Glenn directly. You may also purchase his books through www.lulu.com

Glenn Martin

Glenn is the author of books on ethics, leadership and spirituality.

"I write to express the possibility of living with integrity and love, strength and joy, ethics and creativity."

Glenn Martin's books are published by G.P. Martin Publishing.

Glenn is a Sydney-based writer, editor, trainer and speaker. His areas of focus are ethics, management, leadership, employment law, training, professional development and spirituality. He is the author of several books.

Glenn's perspective on ethics is presented in his books Human Values and Ethics in the Workplace and The Little Book of Ethics. He offers a framework for ethics based on values, enabling us to move beyond laws and compliance to the quality of relationships and personal identity (spirituality and sense of purpose). Glenn is interested in how we can develop personal practices for living and leading ethically.

Glenn's books on the theory and practice of ethics in organisational life are complemented by several books that are fictionalised stories of his own experiences and reflections on those experiences.

Glenn's stories are informed by his long-time study of the ancient Chinese book of wisdom, the I Ching. The concepts had their genesis over three thousand years ago, were revered and added to by Confucius, and are as pertinent today as they ever were.

Glenn also has a chapter included in the book Adventures in Manifesting: Health and Happiness.

His work in the human resources arena is most recently represented by several chapters in the Australian Master Human Resources Guide, CCH Australia, 2014.

Glenn's latest book is The big story falls apart, released in late 2013.

Profile

GLENN MARTIN

Born in 1950, Glenn grew up in Sydney but moved to the far north coast of New South Wales in the 1970s, seeking a back-to-the-earth life style. He stayed in the area for 20 years before coming back to Sydney. He has held a variety of jobs aside from writing: school teacher, psychiatric nurse, community worker, social researcher, manager of organisations in the not-for-profit sector, and editor of professional publications in training and management.

His first two books were local histories: Places in the Bush: A History of the Kyogle Shire (1988) and The Kyogle Public School Centenary Book (1995). He wrote and published Human Values and Ethics in the Workplace in 2007, along with two volumes of poems and stories: Flames in the Open and Love and Armour.

In 2009 Glenn wrote his first novel, The Ten Thousand Things: A story of the lived experience of the I Ching, which has since been followed by three more books.

Glenn holds a Bachelor of Business (Honours) and the University Medal from Southern Cross University, and a Master of Education from the University of Southern Queensland.

He has five children who are grown, and three grandsons.